Hi Miss Archer,

Apologies for my delayed response. Yes, that would be helpful to get Catlin's input on my question. I thought that it might just be an error with the label of some of the data. I'm happy to talk it through with Catlin if you want to share my contact information with her. Whatever works best for the Territory.

Thank you.

Good day Ms. Glidden,

Sorry for the delayed response. I did slip me.

However, attached are the wavier and supporting documents that were sent to us from Catlin Nchako on June 14th, to request VI's wavier for 2025. I only updated the areas she indicated to update in that email.

I can reach out to her on the questions you are asking if that's ok with you. Let me know.

Thanks

Hello Emmanueline,

I hope that you have been well! We've updated our analysis using the revised BLS labor force data, and as predicted, that did not change VI's eligibility. Please accept my apologies for the delay in getting this to you - we have been updating a number of state analyses after the BLS data revision in mid-April.

Please find attached a waiver request for a territory-wide waiver for the Virgin Islands, starting in January 2025. The following documents are attached, which complete your request:

- a waiver request draft. Please be sure to fill out numbers 11, 15 through 16.
- a spreadsheet showing the BLS data used and the calculations.
- pdf files showing the BLS data downloaded.

Sincerely,
Catlin

Hello Emmanueline,

Coming back to your request - Virgin Islands is eligible for another waiver for the whole territory in 2025, after the current waiver ends in December 2024. I have attached the spreadsheet showing the analysis.

I can write a request letter now, but I'd like to wait until after April if that works for you. BLS revises its current and historical labor force estimates once a year, usually at the end of April. If I send you a request now, and FNS doesn't look at it until after April, then I would have to re-do the request again anyway to use the revised data BLS would have at that time. I don't anticipate at all that the BLS revisions will change Virgin Islands' eligibility. The only numbers that would change slightly would be the national unemployment rate threshold. But VI's labor force numbers would remain the same.

I hope that this is helpful info. Let me know if May is an acceptable time for you to receive the waiver request.

Sincerely,

Catlin

Good day Catlin,

Trust this email finds you well.

We are contacting you early to find out if VI will still be eligible for ABAWDs for 2025 now that it is being looked at so closely by Congress. We want to ensure that if we are not, that we can start preparing early enough because changes would have to be made in the system as we have had the Waiver for so long now.

Thanks so much for all the help you have been providing us with this data and we look forward to hearing from you.

Do have a great day!

Hello Emmanueline,

We started looking into the 2-year waiver and realized that we don't have enough unemployment data for a 2-year waiver request that starts in January 2024. We need to wait until unemployment data for next September comes out, which will likely be around November.

So you can comfortably submit the 12-month request we provided, and when we get the unemployment data we need in the fall, I'll circle back to you about VI's 2-year eligibility.

Sincerely,

Catlin

Hello Emmanueline,

We got to your request earlier than anticipated – Virgin Islands is eligible for another 12-month waiver for the entire territory, after the current waiver ends in December 2023.

I've gone ahead and drafted the request materials, since the analysis was very straightforward.

The following materials are attached, which will complete your request:

- a waiver request draft. Please be sure to fill out numbers 12, 14 through 17.
- excel spreadsheet showing the BLS data used and the calculations.
- pdf files showing the BLS data downloaded.

Please confirm receipt, and let me know if you have any questions!

On a related note, we can look into whether Virgin Islands is eligible for a 2-year territory-wide waiver, if that is of interest. If so, I expect to let you know by mid-July.

Sincerely,

Catlin

Hello Emmanueline,

I hope that you have been well. That makes sense to see what VI is eligible for after its current waiver ends in December. I'm happy to take a look. There are enough labor force data to make that determination. I anticipate I can get this to you in early July – we are currently working to assist states whose current waivers are ending in early fall. But your analysis will not be far behind!

Does that work for you all? Please let me know.

Good day Catlin,

With all the correspondence that are currently being released from FNS on ABAWDS and the fact that the unemployment rate has been lowering drastically, the VI would like to apply for the ABAWDS waiver early enough to see where we stand.

Many of the staff here has no or little knowledge of how ABAWDS work because we have had the waiver for a very long time.

So I think trying to apply early to see where the VI is, is important for training purpose on the ABAWDS time limit requirements, if we do not get approved for the waiver for next year.

Please advise and thanks as usual for your continued assistance on this matter.
